Considers himself a peace troubadour

Best-selling author James Twyman will introduce his new book, "The Barn Dance," at the Sedona Public Library from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 1.

Twyman is giving away advance copies of his book to area residents who agree to read it first and then attend the presentation, where he will discuss the book and answer questions.

Twyman is the author of numerous books, including "The Moses Code," "The Kabbalah Code" and "The Proof."

He also considers himself a peace troubadour who draws groups of people together in prayer in an effort to positively influence crises throughout the world, according to a press release.

Twyman is the executive producer and co-writer of the feature film "Indigo" and the director of "The Indigo Evolution" and the documentary "The Moses Code."

He is also a member of the Order of St. Francis and the co-director of the World Community of Saint Francis.

"The Barn Dance" tells the story of how two men broke into Linda Twyman's apartment in Evanston, Ill., on Nov. 27, 2005, and brutally ended her young life.

The book recounts how 3½ years later James Twyman was mystically drawn to a barn deep in the Nevada wilderness, where heaven and earth collide and magic changes lives, the press release stated.

"The Barn Dance" is an answer for those who have ever wondered if it is possible to communicate with loved ones who have passed to the other side, the press release stated.

The books are available for pick up at The Well Red Coyote and The Worm bookstores and by mail for a shipping fee of $3.38.

Participants will be asked to make a donation of $1 to cover the cost of shipping books to Sedona and are invited to make a donation to help pay for the meeting space.
